STAR AMATEURS IN CAST

Proceeds of Production Will Go to Noel House-Stage to Be Set Today.

With the final rehearsal tomorrow night at the Columbia Theater, when each of the 500 young people, comprising the pick of Washington's amateurs, will appear in costume, practically everything now is in readiness for the national pageant, "Columbia," which will be given its initial performance Tuesday night. Every chorus and dance has been rehearsed to its final degree of perfection with a result that the management is confident that "Columbia" will be the most successful amateur performance ever given in Washington. The proceeds will be devoted to Noel House.

The scenery and costumes have arrived from New York and tomorrow morning stage carpenters, electricians, and decorators will get the stage in readiness for the dress rehearsal and following performances which will be given every evening during the week. A special matinee will be given Saturday afternoon. Following are the names of some of the cast for "Columbia": of the cast for "Columbia":

Deputy Fire Chief Andrew J. Sullivan will be tried by a specially appointed trial board Thursday morning. February 12, at 19 o'clock in the board room in the Municipal Building, on charges of in-

Municipal Building, on charges of inefficiency and neglect of duty.

The trial board, appointed by the Commissioners late yesterday afternoon, is composed of Capt. Mark Brooke, Assistant Engineer Commissioner; Joseph C.
Sheehy, chairman of the Excise Board, and Charles F. Nesbit, Superintendent of Insurance.

The Commissioners will be represented conference late yesterday afternoon and were supplemented by detailed specifi-cations. They are based upon testimony rendered in a secret probe before Com-missioner Siddons into the circumstances leading to and surrounding the trapping of five firemen in the fire of the Five and Ten Cent Store Building in Seventh street, December 24, last.

Deputy Chief Not Suspended.

A copy of the charges was sent to Chief ngineer of the Fire Department Frank Wagner with the instruction to serve upon Deputy Chief Sullivan within it upon Deputy Chief Sullivan within forty-eight hours.

The deputy chief is not suspended.
All witnesses appearing before the trial board will be sworn and subjected to examination and cross-examination.

The news of the Commissioners' decision to give Sullivan an opportunity to be confronted with witnesses who testified against him, to cross-examine these witnesses, and, if able to do so, to refute their testimony, was received with much gratification by Sullivan himself. Attorney Darr, and the deputy chief's friends.

"A square deal is all I ask for, and I cannot thank the Commissioners' enough for giving me this chance to prove my innocence," said Deputy Chief Sullivan last night, when told by a Heraid reporter of the Commissioners' action.

Attorney Darr, who as Sullivan's best riend, has championed the deputy fire chief's cause ever since the latter had been "tipped off" by Commissioner Siddons that his resignation would be wel-comed, said he had the utmost confidence in the fairness and sense of jus-tice of the trial board.

"The whole truth about the fire will be known: that's all I can say at this time concerning the case itself," said Mr Darr. Chief Engineer Wagner, when informed of the Commissioners' action last night, said: "Well. I hope they'll settle it some time or other; that's all I have to say."

First Charge of Inchelency.

The first charge against Sullivan is that he is guilty of "inefficiency in the performance of his duties as deputy chief engineer.

Protest Against Stephens Bill. Former Senator Charles Faulkner, of

TOWN TOPICS Deputy Fire Chief Is Granted the operating committee, representing 240,000 miles of railroad, protested before the House Interstate Commerce subcommittee yesterday against the Stephens bill which would give safety control of all railroad properties and service to the Interstate Commerce Commission. He declared that while the railroads would prefer to have authority over their expenditures for the protection of life intrusted to the same commission which determines the revenues road, the bill goes altogether too far.

JOHNSON MEASURE

Probably Will Be Given Preference Over Prouty Bill, Recodifying Insurance Laws.

SUBCOMMITTEE GIVES HEARING

That the Johnson bill, terminating inerlocking control of local financial institutions, will be reported out instead of the Prouty bill, which recodifies the nsurance laws of the District, is probable as the result of hearings yesterday before a subcommittee of the House District committee.

The Johnson bill takes the Prouty neasure bodily and without change, and adds to it prohibitions against interlock ing control of real estate, insurance and loan businesses. The Prouty bill was drawn to meet the insurance evils found by the subcommittee of the District committee which investigated local insur-ance conditions. Prouty, a member of ance conditions.
